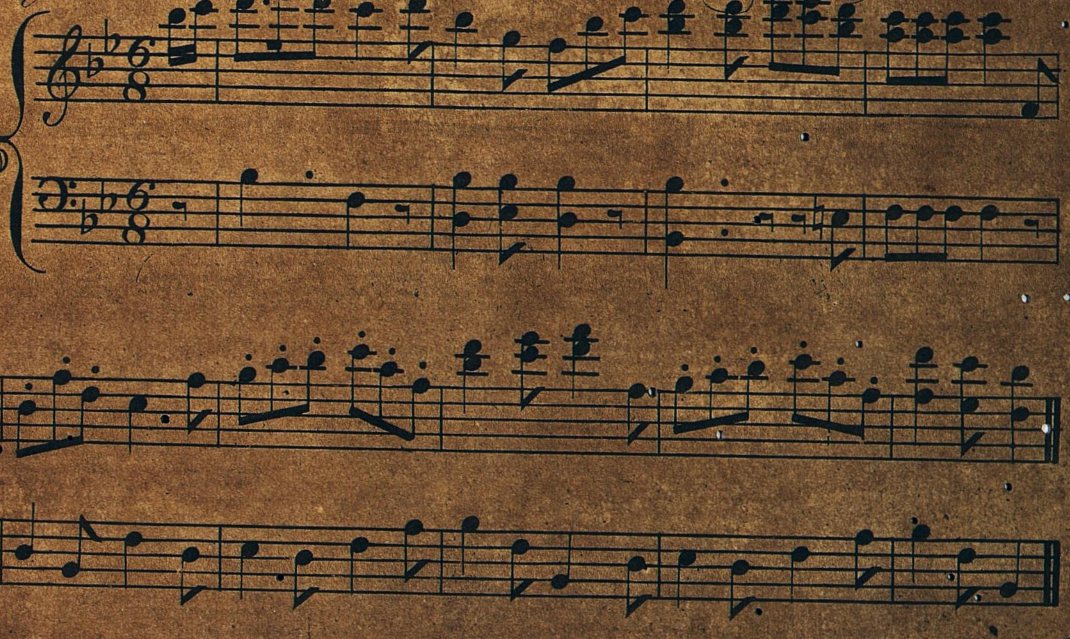
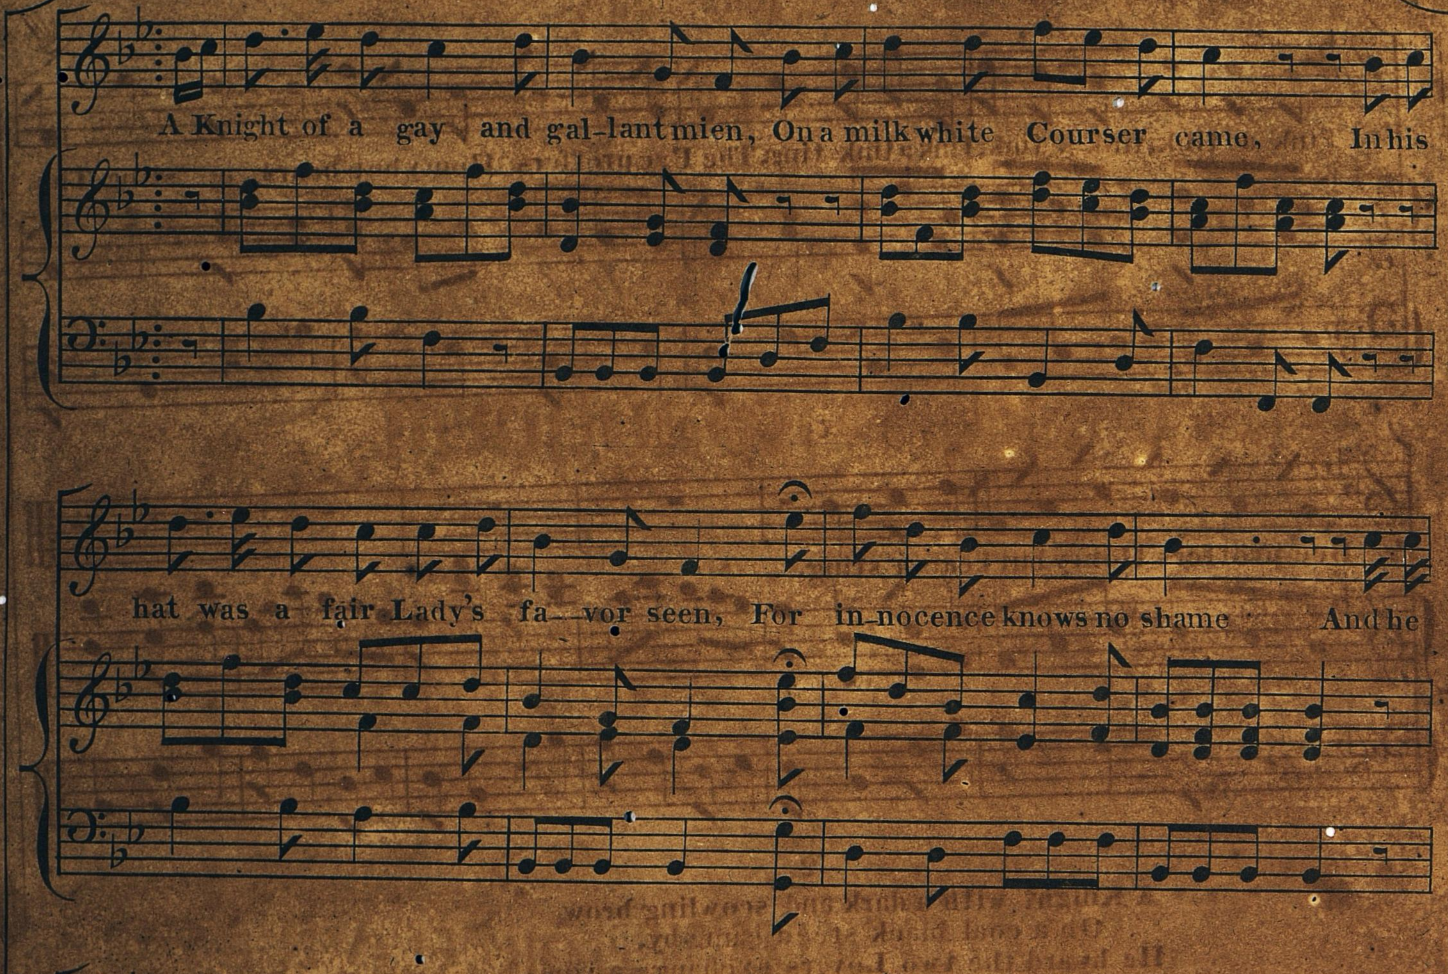
ANDANTE ALLEGRETTO





A Knight of a gay and gal-lant mien, On a milk white Courser came, In his hat was a fair Lady's fa-vor seen, For in-nocence knows no shame And he tapp'd at the fair La-dy's bow'r with glee, She heard but im-patience to mar, When he cried fair La-dy come ride with me She answer'd him with her Guitar

A Knight with a dark and scowling brow
On a coal black steed came by,
He heard the two Lovers exchange a vow,
And fury gave fire to his eye
But he courtesly said''if you're cross'd in Love
And would bear the fair Lady afar
My Sword and my service are your's to prove,
But the Lady she play'd her Guitar.

The Knight so gallant disappear'd that day;
And never was heard of more;
And the sable Knight made a proud display,
Of the favor that gallant Knight wore
The Lady he woo'd but he gain'd no grace,
And joy from his bosom went far,
For the Honey of hope to guilt's sting gave place
And conscience still play'd the Guitar.
